

WE ARE PIGS

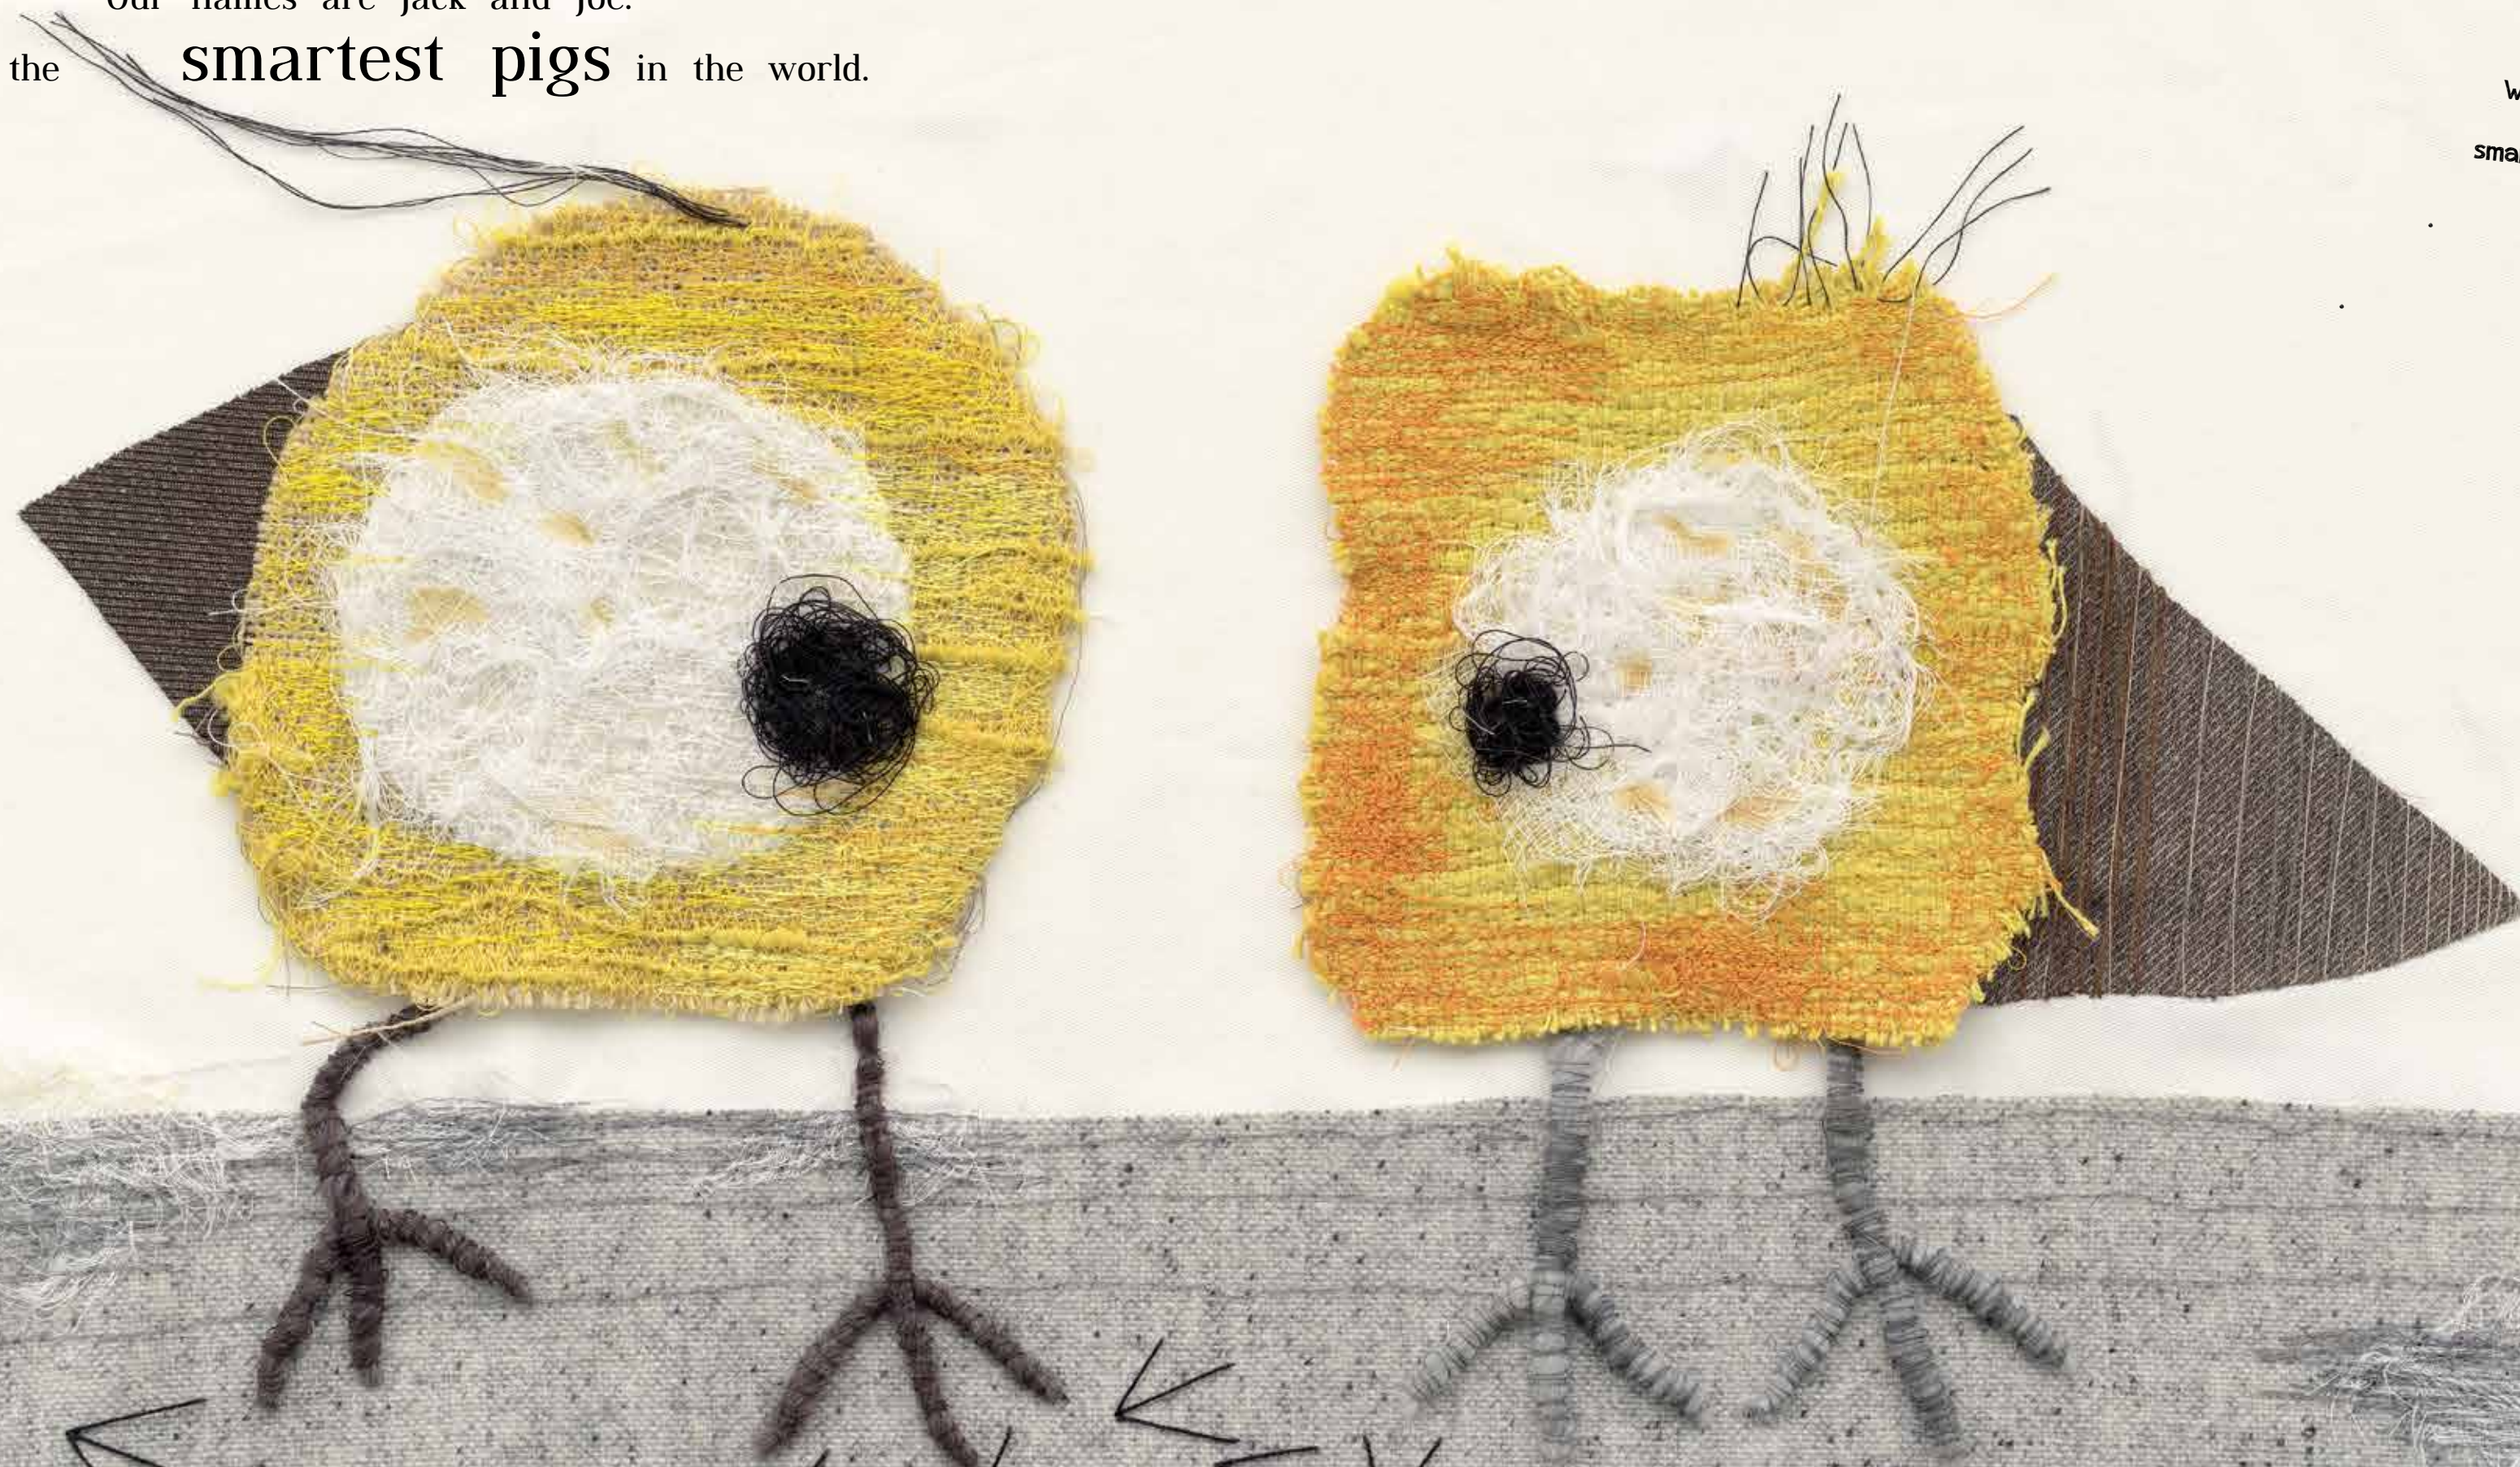

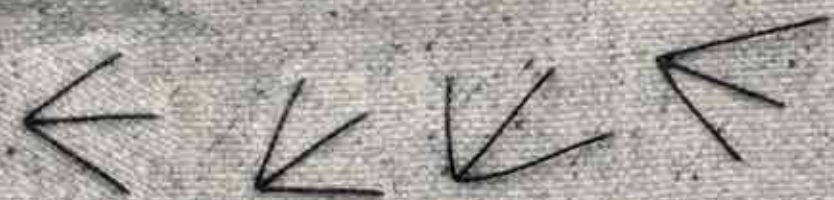

MANICA K MUSIL

Our names are Jack and Joe.
We are the smartest pigs in the world.

What does
smartest mean?

I'm smarter
than you!

One day we found something.
At first we thought it was a ball,
so we played soccer. But it wasn't really round and it rolled funny.

You be the goalie!

So now you think you're soccer
players?

You don't even know how to kick a ball!
You don't know anything
about soccer!

Kick straight! Who taught you how
to kick?

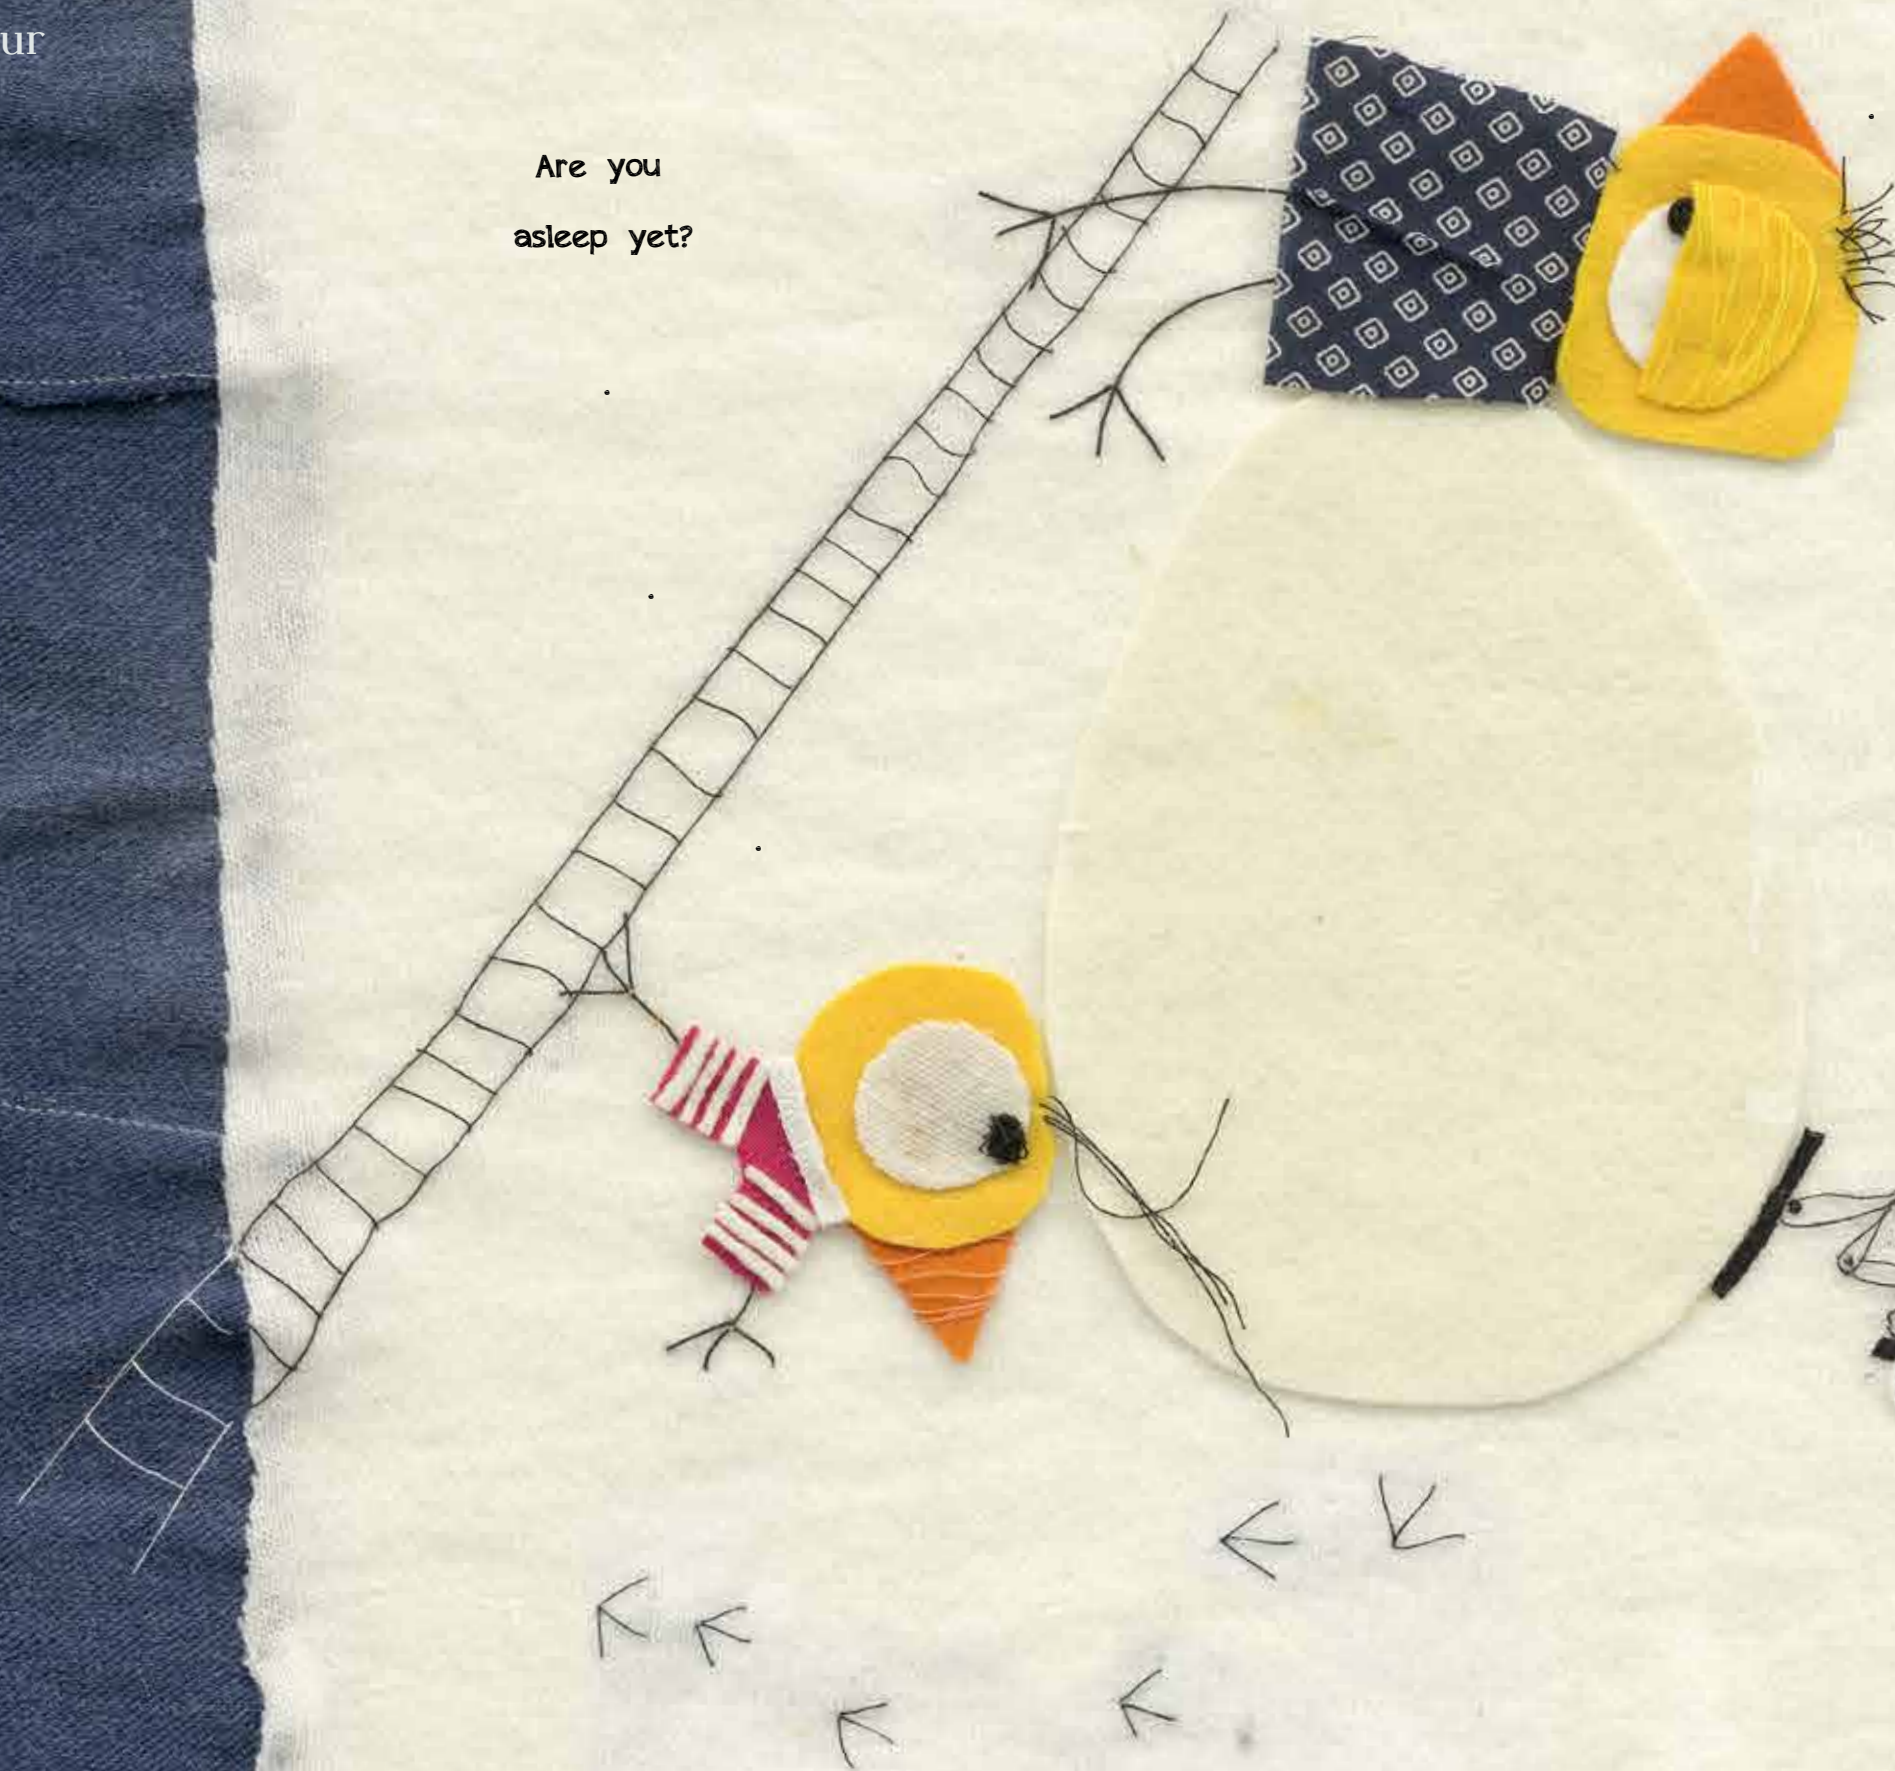

“Maybe it’s a bed,” said Joe. We put our pyjamas on and lay down. It didn’t work.

You look funny
in pyjamas.

Look at yourself!

Are you
asleep yet?

Hold on a little longer. This isn’t too comfortable...

What pretty
pyjamas!

Mine are blue.

"If it came from the sky, it might be the sun!"
thought Joe. That didn't seem too far off, but I said we'd have to paint it yellow.

Give me those
blue pyjamas!

No, the blue
ones are mine!

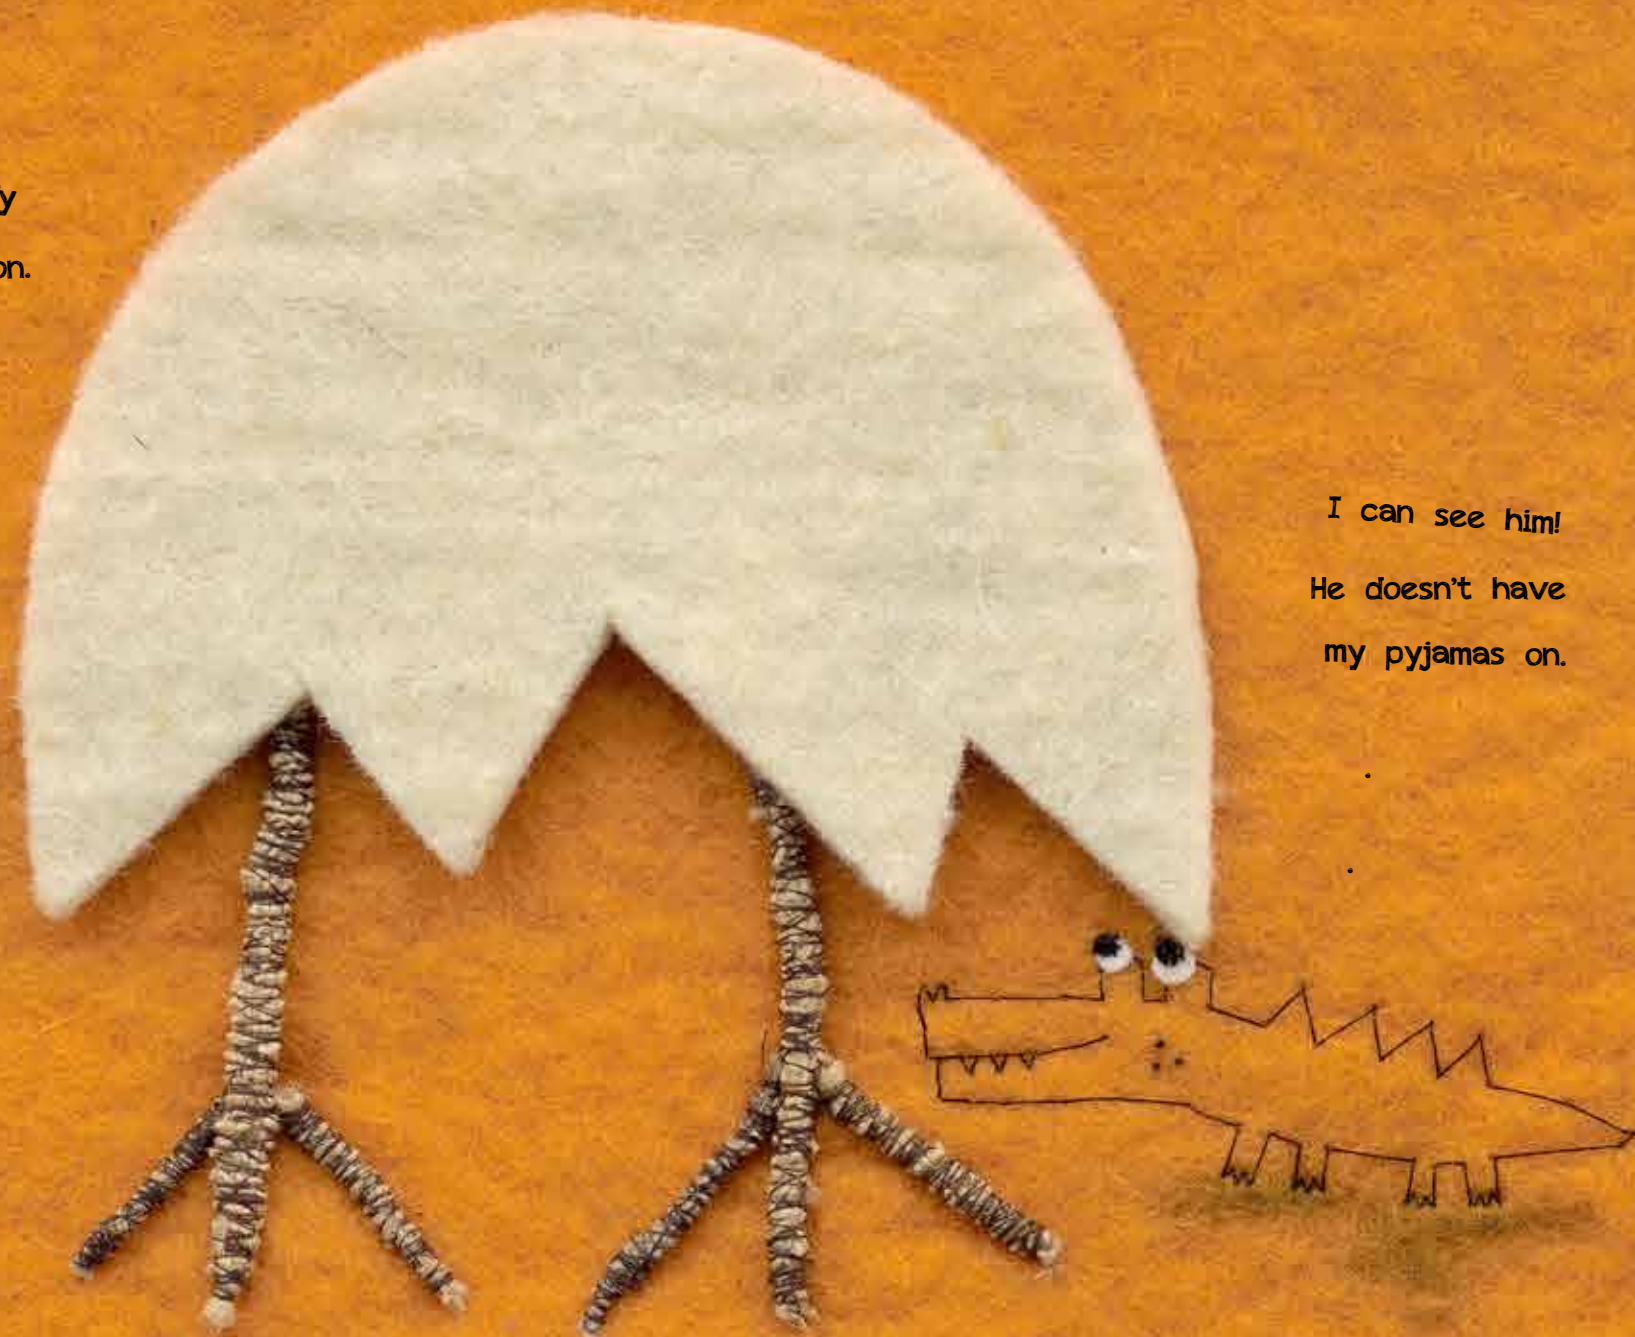

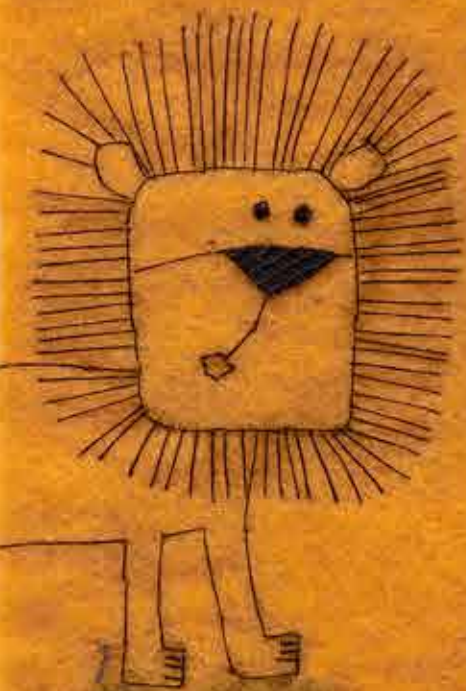

But the sun
is round.

If the moon can
change shape,
why not the sun?

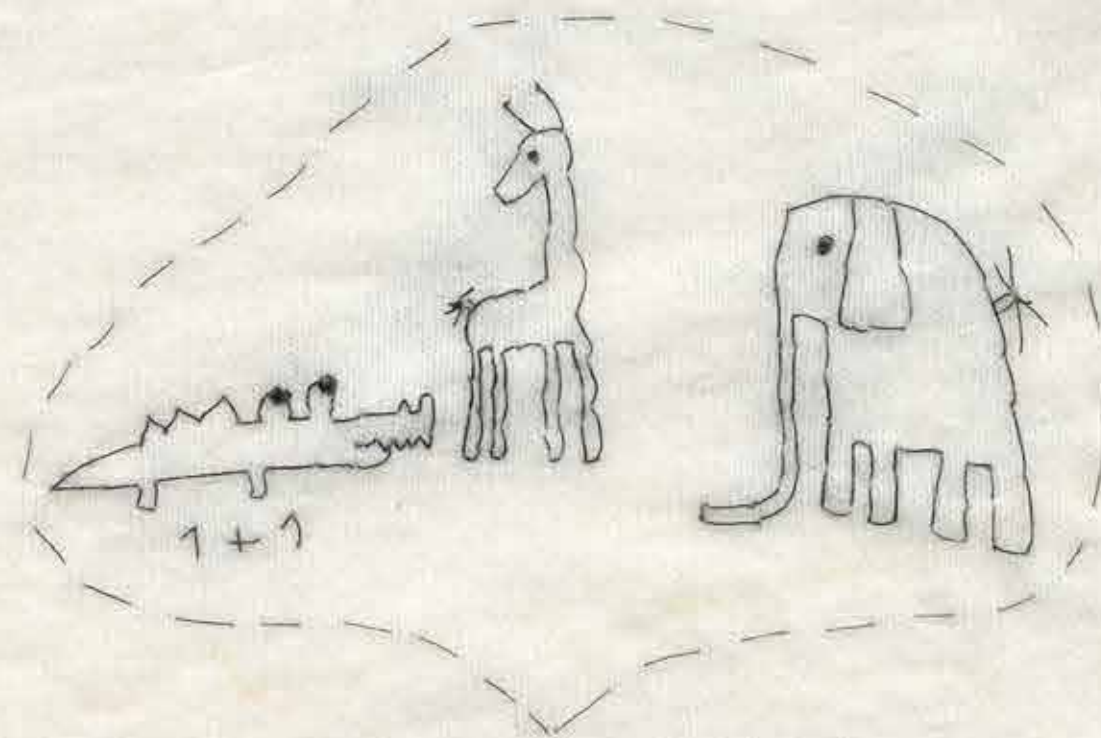

It toppled over. The smaller piece fell away and we saw two legs.

Somebody's already put your pyjamas on.

I can see him!
He doesn't have
my pyjamas on.

What if it's a monster?

And it eats
us up...

We were a little afraid, but we helped take off the other part anyway. We couldn't believe our eyes.

“He looks like you!” said Joe.

You wouldn't leave me alone! You'll see what playing ball means!

He really does look
like you!

He's got
your snout!

Give me those
blue pyjamas!

First come,
first served.
